

DECOLONISING DEVELOPMENT

Discussion led by Marion Osieyo

27 June 2018

Hosted by the London International Development Network, LSE International Development Society (DESTIN), and Tobi Ijitoye

Practising the Breath

Inhale: Receiving others with curiosity

Pause: Listening to understand

Exhale: Taking responsibility to co-create this space

Pause: Giving and living the gift of presence

Reflections

- How do colonial practices appear in your daily work?
- How do these practices affect your work/your organisation/your relationships?

Reflections

- How does my agency (behaviour, assumptions, perceptions) contribute to colonial practices in development?
- What structures perpetuate colonial practices in development? What role do they play?
- What do you find challenging about addressing these situations/structures/relationships?

What does a decolonised development look like?
